

PERENNIAL SOWTHISTLE

Sonchus arvensis

Perennial Sowthistle has flowers that resembles the dandelion flower. It can spread aggressively with windblown seeds. Small pieces of root left behind can become new plants, making removal difficult. This thistle prefers disturbed areas and moves in quickly. It is best controlled by spraying with herbicide or hand pulling, being careful to get the entire root.